PROFILE

I am a Systems Administrator, with a wide variety of skills. Most recently, I relocated across the US to oversee the technical aspects of a warehouse building project. Managing vendors, rolling up my sleeves installing network and server gear, and installing end user equipment, with a tight deadline, and completing 3 months early all while being the only IT personnel on-site. All this without impacting existing operations. In my spare time, I play Fortnite with my nephew and host a podcast about music for fun.
